

ALUMNI/AE OF SOUTHERN SEMINARY

Students and Graduates before 1887

The following is a 1996 list of graduates prior to 1887, made up as accurately as possible, after the Rev. David Rhodes Keck's detailed study of The Lutheran Observer; Minutes from the North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee Synods; Seminary Catalogs (the oldest being that of 1880); and Dr. A. G. Voigt's A Historical Sketch: Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary. There are several persons whose year of graduation is still uncertain.

The left column designates the year of graduation. In the very earliest years, some students left seminary before completing all required work. (These are designated by an asterisk [*]), but because they were given licenses and later ordained by various synods, they are here considered graduates. Names of students who attended Southern Seminary only one or two years and then dropped out, or who finished at other seminaries, have been omitted from the list immediately below since they are not properly designated "graduates" of Southern Seminary.

John D. Bowles, J. T. Bowles, J. L. Smithdeal

1861

At the outbreak of the Civil War there were three students enrolled in the seminary, J. H. McCullough, (R. J.?) Hungerpeler and Jefferson A. Sligh. All three left the seminary to join the Confederate Army, Hungerpeler being killed in 1862, and J. H. McCullough being killed May 12, 1864, on field of battle near Spottsylvania Court House, VA. Jefferson Sligh left the army in 1862 or 1863 to take up teaching, and, though some records show that he did not complete the seminary course, in 1863 he was licensed by the South Carolina Synod.

1864

A. D. Moser (some references consider Jefferson A. Sligh a graduate of this class)

1865

In the year 1865 the seminary was closed because there were no students.

1866

Seminary reopened though there were no graduates this year

1868

Samuel Thomas Hallman, Henry S. Wingard

1871

Cornelius Prileau Boozer, George A. Hough

1873

Vastine R. Stickley (sources differ concerning this class)
