

RUSSIAN ICONOLOGY WORKSHOP

January 24-30, 2010

+ + What to Expect + +

Participants will “write” (paint) an icon in the Byzantine-Russian tradition under the instruction of staff from the Prosoption School of Iconology in New York. Along with the actual process of writing the icon, explanations will be given of the symbolic and theological basis for each step.

This workshop is designed for both novices and advanced students. No special artistic background is required whatsoever. The instructors are accustomed to working with non-artists and first-time icon writers. All supplies will be provided. The time commitment, however, is significant: 9 hours per day, including “catch-up” time in the evenings.

+ + + + Cost + + + + +

The cost for the Russian Iconology Workshop is $750, which includes tuition, art supplies, and lunch on campus during the week. A limited amount of double-occupancy housing is available on campus on a first-come, first-serve basis for $25 per night. Once campus housing is filled, participants will be housed at a local hotel at an additional cost of around $115 per night (single) or $58 per night (double).

Space is limited. A deposit of $400 is required to reserve a space; balance due by December 14, 2009.
